ABOUT THE EVENT
About the Event (The UP CIDS Publications Unit reserves the right to edit write-ups for clarity, brevity, and readability; For multiple lectures/ presentations, you may include the abstract for each one.) Abstract (For events with more than one presentation, kindly attach all the abstracts per presentation)	The Spotting Fake News Online workshop that started last January is on its THIRD run. This time, it is conducted in partnership with De La Salle Philippines. The event is free and open for all. Registration is needed to participate in the event. Spotting Fake News Online As internet use and access to social media have continued to rise in the Philippines, the production and distribution of false and malicious information online have also become more prevalent and sophisticated. With disinformation as a widely used tactic to advance political and commercial interests, it is necessary for online users to find better ways to evaluate information. Based on the online civic reasoning curriculum formed by Stanford History Education Group, the workshop provides strategies and activities to help online users in spotting fake news online.
